BASTION STREET.

were pleased to repose in us when we assumed the duties of Cabinet Ministers a year ago." It is alleged that "a revenue of som three hundred and fifty thousand dollars was placed at their disposal in January last,"and that "no great works have been undertakeu". to mark their " first year's administration.' And then it asks, very properly, we think, What has been done with that large amount M money?" Now, if our contemporary will only exercise patience until Parliament meets, we can assure it a most satisfactory asswer will be given to its inquiry. It can scarcely expect to receive an answer to such JAPANESE STORE a question from any other source than the Government, or any sooner than the House WILL OPEN THE FIRST WEEK IN meets. We may, however, volunteer a ltttle stock of Holl Information to our contemporary, without Ladies' & Childrens' Boots & Shoes leaving ourselves open to a charge of divalging Cabinet secrets. It is fact capable of the clearest demonstration and very well known to everyone who takes an interest in public affairs and has watched past year, that more money has been expend ed and more really useful and desirable worl performed throughout the various districts of the Province, during the period the present Government have held office, than has ever been done in the same period of time by any previous Government since the first settle ment of the country. More roads have been made, more bridges built, more land sold, apted, and settled upon during th present year than in any previous year, and less complaints have been heard during the same period from the people on the score of neglect or indifference to their wants and interests, than has characterized the operations of any preceding Administration. True, mutterings of discontent have periodically been heard through the medium of our contemporary's columns, but it is now so well known that these whining epistles are conceived and brought forth in the sanctum of the Colonist, that they scarcely cause more than a passing thought in the minds of those persons who take the trouble to read them. The body and brains, and bone and sinew, of the country thoroughly endorse the policy of the Government and approve their acts, and to this fact we may doubtless attribute the spasmedic efforts of our neighbor to sow the seeds of discontent in the minds of the people. Nothing, however, is more certain than that its labor will be in vain. The reader will recollect that one of the very first acts of the present Ministry, when they took office, was to effect a saving of the public revenue by amalgamating certain public offices and reducing the number of officials, wherever such a reduction could be effected without impairing the efficiency of the public service. It will also be remembered with what viru lence the Colonist assailed the Government for so doing, and has ever since continued to assail them ; but nevertheless it now has the effrontery to bring a charge against the Goveroment for not having gone further in the work of retrenchment than it did. It says :

instead of that reduction and amalgamation of departments so loudly advocated in former times by the present Premier, we find that departments have been increased in number not true that the separation of the Finance Department from the Provincial Secretary's of the Government a single dollar, but on the contrary, as we have more than once shown, a clear saving was thereby effected, as the Colonist very well knows. We echo the sentiment attered by our contemporary, that "the people throughout the country are not fools;" but really those who read the Colonist regularly can scarcely come to any other conclusion than that the editor of that jour-nel must think, when he writes as he does, that the people are not overburdened with without being decreased in expense." It is Finally a ghastly smile crept over his terday forenoon to tow to sea the ship Red face, he raised half up in his seat, and nabbed a large black bug that was crawling on a pillar hard by, and gently dropped him down between his unconscious rival's shirt collar and neck, and then calmly leaned back with a virtuous and christian air of satisfaction. The bug soon made his presence felt, and that other fellow began to twitch and scratch himself against the back of his seat and look uneasy, and cast unhappy glances at the minister, and affecting ones at the fair being at his side. The bug evidently grew more impatient at his imprisonment, and turned himself loose. Grappling around him and the door in two bounds.

Undoubtedly the present system of secular ducation tends to foster and encourage such tendencies, and mighty efforts are being made in England to counteract it, so that its future shall not be represented by heartless intellectuality, if with the sharpening of the wits there is to be the sacrifice of former simplicity, former kindly feeling between the emloyer and the employed, former respect for parents, regard for age, love of country, and reverence of duty, then we shall have gained knowledge without wisdom.

This is one of the dangers connected with the new era now being inaugurated, and which those who have the moulding of the national mind will have to see to, so that materialism be not so in the ascendant as to stifle every noble emotion, but that with tre increase of wealth and intelligence there may be also a corresponding increase in social and religious attainments, this attended to our country may still as in the olden time be spoken of as open hearted and generous Eng-
